Q: How to remove first 10 rows and then all the rows in a DataFrame in Python? How can I remove first 10 rows and then all the rows from a DataFrame in Python? Here is my example. `test_DF = pd.DataFrame([[1, 2], [3, 4], [5, 6], [7, 8]])` I want to remove the first 10 rows and then apply a function to the rest of the rows and then I want to reset the index and turn it into a DataFrame again. So here is the expected output `[2, 4, 6, 8] [3, 4, 6, 8] [5, 6, 8, 9]` A: This code will do that with `pd.DataFrame.iloc` and `pd.DataFrame.drop`. Both methods operate on a slice (or a list of indices) so you can do it with the following single line: `test_DF.iloc[:10, :].drop(range(10), 1).drop(range(11), 1).reset_index(drop=True)`
